

Session Overview

Understand the statutory requirements

Good practice

Timescales and requirements

What does good look like and why is planning changing

How to produce SMART plans that are outcome based

Reviews

Children's Engagement

Step up – Step down and close

Understanding the statutory requirements

CIN planning is identified following an assessment of the child and families' needs. If the child has areas of unmet need and or meets the criteria under S17 CA 1989 for Support a CIN plan will be required.

Planning usually commences on completion of the assessment and, should be opened on the file no later than the assessment authorisation date - It is worth noting that interventions don't have to wait till the meeting has taken place

The first meeting should be held within a maximum of 10 working days of the assessment completion date. Reviews will then be required every 3 months as a minimum – you can bring these forward if you are concerned progress isn't being achieved or you want to facilitate step-down once key actions completed

What is good practice in CIN planning

The family will need to be aware of our recommendations for CIN and agree to work with us under S17 As part of the assessment consider what the needs of the family are in order to capture what needs to change and formulate a draft Plan

Once criteria is met start thinking about the practitioners that will likely need to be involved and discuss with child & parents, book a date and send invites so all the key partners and the family so have enough notice to be able to attend.

Consider when and where the meeting will take place and that we consider the child's wishes and feelings. Mind of My Own

Depending on the age of the child they should be supported to attend the meeting or consider how they contribute.

Consider at the beginning of the meeting who will take minutes and when these will be distributed, parents should have a copy within a minimum of 10 working days

Outcome focused SMART plans

Why we are changing to make our plans more outcome focussed?

- We need to work in partnership with children and families in line with our practice framework
- To help us focus on children rather than adults sometimes tasks are completed but the children are not yet safe or need remains unmet

 To be clear for the child and everyone what 'good enough' will look and feel like for the child

How we use outcome focused plans to improve the lives of children

- We start from what good enough looks like for the child.
- We use positive and clear non jargonistic language that everyone understands
- We work collaboratively with parents and child, and agencies.
- Outcome focused plans are those that aim to achieve the priorities that children and their families identify as important
- We recognise difference and value diversity
- We have just one plan for the child agreed by the family and agencies

Outcome focused plans to improve the lives of children continued ... We are able to measure progress and consider alternatives in a timely manner for the child if there is lack of progress

- We are strengths based. We recognise and acknowledge success
- To highlight to the family what will happen if the plan is not successful in achieving the aim (ask the family to think about Contingency plans, not everything will go to plan!)
- Families are able to see clearly what else they need to do to reach the desired outcome and maintain this
- We ask ourselves the 'what benefit' question so that everything we do adds value to children and families and if it doesn't, we don't do it

Act as a facilitator, enable the family to identify solutions and respectfully challenge areas of risk or need that the family may not have considered, and in a strengths-based approach as suggested above.

Contribute to SMART planning that is outcome focused for the child, ensuring actions have purpose and impact that will reduce the risk and concerns identified. Be clear about what you can offer to the family in your role.

Instead of saying

I am really concerned you haven't been taking Rosie to school every day and this is having a huge impact on her education.

Consider

What makes it difficult for you to bring Rosie to School on a regular basis?

What help do you need to ensure Rosie attends every day?

I am worried your lack of engagement means the children will continue to be at risk

How can you show Rosie, her teachers and us that you want things to be better?

What impact does this have

By removing the blame and providing the family an opportunity to explain the challenges it enables them to tell professionals what needs to change and how they can do this or what support they need.

Ensuring responsibility without criticising the family and avoiding antagonistic debate

Child in Need plan in Mosaic

What do we want to achieve – what will look different	What needs to happen and what would help	Who will take action and by when

Children's Engagement

What are your experiences of involving children in their reviews?

What preparation and consultation do we provide?

Use of Mind of My Own?

Review process

- Plans need to be reviewed within a maximum of 3 months
- Ensure minutes and updated plan is provided to the child/family/practitioners within 10 working days
- Consider how progress will be monitored inbetween meetings to ensure progress
- Step up and step down Consider when is "good enough" met
- Line of sight to agree and include Early Help in the meeting ready to step down

